Mt Druitt Learning Ground Project

Chain Reaction's major work for 2011 – 12 has been the further development of Mt Druitt Learning Ground. The project is designed as a behavioural change management centre offered to the most culturally diverse and disadvantaged families in the eleven suburbs of Mt Druitt, a population of 60,000. It is designed as a "safe haven" in which families can acquire self-confidence and personal living and literacy and numeracy skills such that they will be enabled to participate in mainstream living thus entering or re-entering school or other institutions of learning and or working in the community in voluntary or paid work. Chain Reaction staff together with volunteers prepared curriculum and course material and took care of recruitment details. Learning Ground continued to operate throughout 2011 – 12. A Part-time Project Coordinator was re-appointed in January when DEEWR on-going funding for 12 months was confirmed.

At the time of reporting Learning Ground is serving more than 60 families at a time consisting of at least one child and one adult from each family and has a waiting list. Twenty three school terms have been completed resulting in most of the children and young people participants returning to school on a four day a week basis, attending Learning Ground in an on-going manner one day per week. Adult family members have continued on a weekly basis and many families have achieved full time or part time paid work, others have gained volunteer positions all of which entail on-going community development training, 175 school refuses or young people experiencing school suspensions have returned to school without further offences.

Learning Ground is unique in that it offers a community education program in behavioural change for adults, youth and children alike, pays particular attention to traditional and contemporary Aboriginal thinking and embraces cultural faith and ethnic diversity and learning through the celebration of difference.

Progression from pilot to sustainable program is now the challenge and every effort is being made to establish on-going funding and to write the program in detail which will prepare it for replication in other communities across the country as desirable.

We are particularly appreciative of funding received from St George Foundation, Marian and EH Flack Trust and DEEWR to make the programme possible this year.

Parenting Programme – Family Life

We were able to continue the Parent or “Family Life Program for a second year. Working together with our Partner Organisation, The Parent Practice Australia, we have tailored the work to be particularly helpful to Aboriginal families. The programme was offered three times in this reporting period. Two groups of twelve parents in each attended training mornings each week for six weeks. Training was conducted in how to:

- Catch children doing what is right and to build on the positive
- Listening with the capacity to really hear what is being said
- Assisting in the dynamic process of setting families up for success in living together
- Establishing rules that matter
- Taking corrective steps that really work.

We are most appreciative of the funding made available by DEEWR to conduct the programme at Learning Ground this year.

Enablers Programme and Development of Train-the-Trainer Manual

We have continued to offer the Enablers Leadership Programme to community leaders from Western Sydney. Completing our eighth year of offering the programme to around 264 participants.

We have also conducted a Train-the-Trainer programme for volunteer mentors.

Chain Reaction Breakfast Café

KPMG NSW and VIC, Senior Partner, Paul Reid, has hosted the bi-monthly Breakfast Café program in Melbourne and Sydney.

Around 80 people – business, government and community leaders are regular breakfast attendees. The concept and practise of social inclusion from different perspectives is examined at each breakfast with a range of excellent speakers drawn from Chain Reaction Specialist Consultants and other eminent citizens.

Attendees are invited to come to breakfast on the understanding that they in turn will host a breakfast inviting others to do the same, thus creating a ‘chain reaction’ of breakfasts convened around the selected topics.

Summary of discussions are found on Chain Reaction website home page – Breakfast Café www.chainreaction.org.au

Partnerships on Social Inclusion

---

We have been pleased to present a series of seminars to several of our partner organisations throughout the year. Attended by community and government staff the work has gone some distance to enable Chain Reaction to present a viable framework through which to measure social cohesion and citizen engagement in a community.

Summary

The Foundation's tenth year of operation has been challenging with high demands for service and with exceedingly limited resources to be able to meet the demand. Outreach to private Trusts and Foundations are now very limited in yielding a positive result.

Consultations, Workshops and Forums have clearly filled a community need, and through this means a satisfactory outreach to decision makers in business, government and community has taken place.

The Breakfast Café in Melbourne and Sydney has taken an even stronger place in Australia this year as a valuable forum for examination of social issues.

The decision to "stay with" the local community of Mt Druitt, 2770 postcode has been rewarding. Indigenous and non-indigenous leaders from the area have contributed substantially to both the Enablers Project as well as to the development of Learning Ground. Chain Reaction's goal of making a valuable contribution to the capacity building of community leaders and their organisations is being realised.

Learning Ground is offering strong community leadership in behavioural change management and the Parenting (Family Life) Programme has been an excellent development for families of the area.

Chain Reaction continues to strive to encourage Australia's citizens to volunteer to become engaged in the communities of which they are a part. Exclusion is increasingly difficult to break as we witness a number of divides operating strenuously in community be they socio-economic, religious, ethnic, age, gender or city/rural and the like.

We are pleased to have made a significant contribution to the development of the government's strategic plan for volunteering over the next decade as a way forward in breaking the exclusion cycle and look forward to enhancing our partnership with Volunteering Australia in the area of volunteering and citizen engagement in the years ahead.

DIRECTORS' REPORT

Chain Reaction celebrated its 10th anniversary with a luncheon in the President's Dining Room, Parliament House, Sydney in May. It was hosted by Hon Greg Smith, Attorney General and welcomed Directors, Specialist Consultants and benefactors who have been with us over the years. A challenging road to travel to identify funding for our valuable work it has certainly been a road less travelled but one of immense rewards to those who have made the journey. To all those who have believed in us we are particularly grateful.

Chain Reaction strives to encourage living in harmony which requires interaction rather than living in isolation brought about by the excessive pursuit of individualism leading to fear and withdrawal from community. Social cohesion is paramount to building healthy communities it is both our task and our dream. We have come to see that volunteering for change is more necessary than it has ever been and we continue to strive toward that end.
